

Dr. Mattu is a tenured professor and Vice Chair of emergency medicine at the University of Maryland School of Medicine, where he has been on faculty since 1996. During the past 28 years, he has developed a niche in emergency cardiology, and he enjoys writing and teaching about this field. He is the author or editor of more than 25 books, and he has provided over 3000 hours of CME in the form of lectures, podcasts, and videocasts, primarily focused on emergency cardiology. When he is not at work, he spends his time jogging near his home in Annapolis, randomly quoting The Princess Bride, and trying to teach electrocardiography to his three kids.
