Dr. Rachel Wiltjer is currently faculty at the University of Maryland Medical Center in the departments of Emergency Medicine and Pediatrics in Baltimore, Maryland. She attended medical school at New York Institute of Technology College of Osteopathic Medicine before heading to the University of Maryland where she completed her combined residency in Emergency Medicine and Pediatrics. Her time is spent half in the Adult Emergency Department and half in the Pediatric Emergency Department. Her clinical interests include the care of both children and adults with neurodevelopmental disabilities, pediatric traumatic injuries, and the use of ultrasound in the Pediatric Emergency Department.