

Dr. Brianna Klucher is a third-year resident at the University of Maryland Medical Center in the Department of Emergency Medicine in Baltimore, Maryland. She will be completing her residency this June and plans to stay at the University of Maryland as Chief Resident and Clinical Instructor. Prior to residency, she completed her medical degree at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences. Her interests include medical education and gender equity in healthcare and medicine.