

Molly Estes completed her residency at the Stanford/Kaiser EM Program, and her fellowship in Medical Education also at Stanford. She currently works as an Assistant Professor and Clerkship Director at Northwestern University. She is the recipient of the AAEM Young Educator's Award, the Joe Lex Educator of the Year Award, the James Keaney Award, and the AAEM Women in Emergency Medicine Young Leader Award. Dr. Estes is involved in CME and conference planning for AAEM and CORD and participates in both the AAEM WiEM "Women's Wisdom" podcast as well as "EM Over Easy." She has a passion for teaching, and her current research involves curriculum design in education.